FIGHTING SOIL LOSSES

The business men of every community as well as its farmers, have reason to be interested in the efforts of national and state agricultural authorities to check the practices that are robbing farm land of its fertility, because loss of fertility means loss of income both for the farmer and those from whom the farmer buys. The principal soil losses come from excessive cropping and washing away of the top soil—"erosion."

One method highly recommended by farmers and university agronomists for replenishing soil fertility lost by erosion and crop harvesting, is application of rock phosphate (1,000 to 2,000 lbs. to the acre) and the growing of legumes as a green manure crop.

The legumes gather free nitrogen from the air and feed directly on the mineral plant food in the soil. Giving them ample phosphorus from rock phosphate applications plus potash if necessary, makes the plants turned under a complete fertilizer. Adding rock phosphate not only supplies phosphorus for successful growing of crops for years to come, but also increases the growth of the legumes, thus increasing their ability to extract more free nitrogen from the air and return more of it and a larger quantity of other plant foods to the soil.

The added organic matter thus obtained by the use of phosphate also aids in the control of erosion by keeping the ground covered and by holding the soil with a more extensive root system.—Titusville Star-Advertiser.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

Time was when such a message as "You gotta write my column this week" from the boss, would not have caused the battling of an ace. There's always so much point on to write about and you all know how well a gal likes to make herself HEARD.

But this time it's with fear and misgiving that I launch into my subject for whatever you say these hectic pre-election days is WRONG. Suppose anyone who follows Russell Kay's column would say "Politics is a natural"—so go to town on that. However, I've found out that try as I may, anything I'd say on any subject from "Grounding Day" to "My First Childhood Recollections" would be interpreted as propaganda for candidate so and so or politician such and such. First I thought of a good old favorite: "The Florida Cross State Canal"—but sure as thunder I'd be accused of trying to re-elect Congressman Lex Green, besides I live in South Florida and would not so be in a terrible mess as drinkin' salt water or no water at all—the rest of our lives?

Then I chewed my gum a bit and hit on the subject of "Guns On for off the Highway"—but everyone would KNOW I was just trying to elect Fuller Warren as Governor, and there's probably very little I could say on the subject that Fuller isn't tellin' the folks these days, anyhow.

"Five Cent Orange Juice" was a good subject about this time last year, so let's give it a whirl again. No. Burton School wouldn't appreciate your stealing his thunder right in the midst of a busy gubernatorial campaign, and besides that might bring up the freeze and the citrus situation, and I just won't endeavor to excite either of them.

The Patman Bill is very important right now—but then I'd either be on the Chain Store Association's payroll, or tryin' to make some votes for Spessard Holland who's making plenty of 'em as it is.

The idea of moving the Capitol has always seemed interesting and worthy of consideration. Other states have done it—and wouldn't it be a lot easier to spell "Crystal River" than "Tallahassee"? Then I says, "Careful there, Frederick Van Roy isn't your lunch these days"—and that's out!

"Taxes" is always a honey. Anyone can talk or balk on "Taxes," but eventually I'd wind up by saying "We don't NEED no more taxes," and of course I'd be accused of tryin' to help "Uncle Fred" go to Washington.

"Townsend Plan"? Fine! Lots of folks for it—lots of "reader interest." Right then, tho', Jerry Carter might figure the column was written for him and slack his pace a bit—and we'd not want to see any of Jerry's following start following Senator Charlie Andrews.

A "crusade" appealed to me. Why not write a forceful article on "Gambling and Its Vices" or "Rackets and Why I Can't Get Into One"? But then there are those who'd probably figure I was on the Dies Committee or the F. B. I. and wouldn't believe anything I said, anyway.

Asher Frank suggests that I write a column of "Safety," but I says "Asher, everyone would KNOW you were up to something. It's too late to get in on this ground, but they'd never I was buildin' you up for Governor next time, if Dave Sholtz doesn't decide to run again, and isn't it funny, Asher, how you never know about Dave whether he's goin' to run for anything or not, and do you think he'll be goin' to Europe again soon . . . ?" When I came to, Asher was gone and I had a black eye!

Then there's "Spending" and "Economy." If I pick one I'm for Roosevelt, Pepper and the New Deal. If I pick the other I'm a Republican and tryin' to promote "Sicker" Coe.

Plenty of subjects? Yes! Plenty of dynamite, too! As the boss often says, "I'd rather die a natural death." And as Cleo Trites says, "Me and Eleanor Roosevelt and the other columnists" do have a time these days. Guess I should have written about "WILD-LIFE Week." I believe that's the best subject. I've hit on yet. Maybe there'll be no pinch on before I'm asked to pinch-hit again, and if so, I promise, you'll get an EAR FULL!—Russell's "Gal Friday."

SPESSARD L.

HOLLAND knows that he cannot, single-handedly, bring about all of the improvements in government he has pledged himself to as governor of Florida, that good government is a matter that is divided between the executive department, the legislature and the people themselves.

He will cooperate closely, and sympathetically, with the legislature and with the people, in the administration of the state's affairs and in the conduct of all of the state's business.

In his original statement of policy, Holland said: "Democracy is on trial throughout the world and Florida must have a state government which will command respect. Such a government must be honest, liberal, efficient, economical, wholly non-sectional, and soundly democratic."

tion of the business of the area it serves. That the Pahokee Rotary club sponsors the Boy Scouts and movements for city benefits. That the club at present has 35 members.

D. D. Caudill, principal of the schools, stated that the Senior High school cared for the entire Glades. That in 1930 the enrollment was 90 and ten years later, including the junior schools at Canal Point, Belle Glade and South Bay, would make the enrollment over 500. He admitted that Pahokee was a live athletic school, and while there might be a bit of gloom just now over the 1940 team, he gave warning to other competitors of the gladiators to look out for Pahokee after September, as the school had good coaches and much material to develop. That the school was an accredited one with a nine month term, and a course of study and faculty second to none in the county.

Archie Harris, secretary of the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, stated that the Chamber was vitally interested in soil and fire control projects, and a new harbor improvement and the securing of one or more new hotels. He stated that the lake provided the world's finest fishing for black bass, and that indications were for many fishing camps to be established, to care for the tourists who are coming into our territory in greater numbers all the time. He also spoke of the improvements along the lake front, of the fine view from the Pahokee ramp. That the Chamber of Commerce was interested in a beautifying campaign and in the increasing of business in the area. L. L. Shirley, representing the Pahokee Lion's club, told of the agricultural development and packing house business, and the distribution of farm machinery and motor supplies. He hailed the "bean" as the vegetable king, stating that with favorable conditions, beans could be raised ready for market in 42-45 days. That 32 different varieties of vegetables were raised commercially, with celery making big advances. That by the opening of the next cropping season Pahokee would have a large state market ready for operation. That the FSA would soon be entering upon the construction of two large migratory housing projects for the care of migrant employees during the cropping season, similar to the camps now ready for occupancy at Belle Glade.

The High school was represented by the Girls' Sextette, which rendered several musical selections. Mr. Decker stated that he was highly pleased with the successful broadcast from Pahokee, and congratulated the city on its attainments, and a wish for still further expansion and improvement.
